Hi Brad,

Thank you for reaching out.

We're going to hold off on a specific comment about exact topics or events for now. We might not agree that these interviews should be behind closed doors, but they are, and so Congresswoman Miller is being abundantly cautious about details until we bring the interviews into the public.

Even though Congresswoman Miller opposes the premise and the process of impeachment, she has been present throughout the interviews as her committee obligations and schedule allowed.

Subject: Question from West Virginia MetroNews

Hi! I am Brad McElhinny, statewide correspondent for West Virginia MetroNews.

I wondered if you could help clarify something for me.

If I understand correctly, as a member of the House Oversight committee, Congresswoman Miller should have had access to the impeachment hearings that have occurred so far. Please correct me if I'm wrong.

Two transcripts were released yesterday -- one from former U.S. Ambassador to Ukraine Marie "Masha" Yovanovitch and another from former Senior advisor to the Secretary of State Ambassador Michael McKinley.

As I look at the transcripts, I don't immediately see Congresswoman Miller among those listed in attendance.

Did Congresswoman Miller choose not to attend? Did she have conflicts? I realize these are just two among quite a few rounds of testimony. So has Congresswoman Miller gone to others that just aren't apparent yet? If so, could you tell me which ones she sat in on?

Finally, if Congresswoman Miller has not attended any, is it because she has a fundamental disagreement of some sort?

The impeachment issue is obviously of national importance, so I appreciate your helping me understand how Congresswoman Miller has participated so far.
